TO TEACHERS.

In the preparation of this book, three principles have been kept always in mind:

First. The habit of distinct and accurate pronunciation differentiates the educated from the uneducated, the scholarly from the illiterate. In acquiring this habit, one will be greatly aided by a mastery of the principles of pronunciation set forth in the first pages of this book, under the heading Orthoepy.

Accurate pronunciation is of the first importance in learning to spell. Our language is unphonetic to a slight degree only. The pronunciation is an index to the spelling of a great majority of words, and every exercise in spelling is, of necessity, an exercise in pronunciation also. For this reason, the exercises in this book have the words divided into syllables and marked diacritically, thus associating the correct spelling with the correct pronunciation.

Second. Experiments have proved that most people are "eye minded" rather than "ear minded," that visual percepts are retained longer and are recalled and reproduced more easily, more vividly and more accurately than are auditory percepts. For this reason, the words in this book are given in the first column just as they appear in print, not marked diacritically nor divided into syllables, and the learner's first percept of a word is a mental picture of the word obtained through the eye. In spelling the word afterwards, he merely recalls and reproduces this mental picture.

For reasons already stated, the same words are given in a second column divided into syllables and marked diacritically. Obviously the first column is to be studied for spelling only, the second for pronunciation only.

The second column is set at some distance from the first in order that there may be no confusion of the two sets of percepts.

Third. A person needs to know the spelling of every word he uses. If he does not know the meaning of a word he can not possibly use it. It is therefore a waste of time to learn the spelling of a word of which the meaning is unknown. The spelling, the pronunciation, and the meaning and use of a word must be taught in conjunction each with the others. They must not, nay they can not, be taught separately.

To this end the pupil should be required to consult the dictionary every day for the spelling, pronunciation, and meaning and use of a certain number of words. It is not sufficient for the teacher to suggest that this work be done. He must require the pupil to perform it thoroughly and regularly.

In this way, the pupil will acquire the dictionary habit and grow every day more accurate in spelling and in pronunciation and more elegant in diction. The dictionary habit increases one's vocabulary and makes one a more intelligent man or woman.

THE AUTHOR.

ORTHOEPY

Orthoepy [ortho = straight; epy = speech] is the art of correct pronunciation.

STANDARD OF PRONUNCIATION

The standard of correct pronunciation is the usage of the best speakers in different parts of the English-speaking world. Students often suppose that the author of a dictionary fixes the pronunciation of a word. This is a misunderstanding of the true purpose of a dictionary. A dictionary merely records what, after careful investigation, is found to be the pronunciation of a majority of the best educated speakers. When no one way of pronouncing a word is generally followed, the dictionary gives two pronunciations, either of which is allowable. As the pronunciation of words is constantly changing, it is advisable to consult the latest editions of the dictionaries for authority in pronunciation.

IMPORTANCE OF THE SUBJECT

The importance of good pronunciation and clear articulation can hardly be overestimated. "Thy speech bewrayeth thee" is the sentence pronounced against many an ambitious person struggling for a position in life. Since pronunciation is largely a matter of imitation, it will often show one's environment. Students should notice carefully the speech of cultivated people and of educated platform speakers, and should strive to reach their standard.

It is not in the pronunciation of difficult words that one shows lack of real culture so much as in the slovenly habit of eliding syllables or the final letter of common words and of substituting one vowel sound for another in words of one syllable, such as wus for was; git for get; fur for for, etc.

ELEMENTARY SOUNDS

There are forty-four elementary sounds in the English language. By a proper combination of these elementary sounds the words of the language are made.

THE ALPHABET IMPERFECT

If the alphabet were perfect, there would be one character for each sound, and but one. The English alphabet contains only twenty-six characters, so that extra duties must be put upon some of the characters—e.g., a has eight sounds. The twenty-six characters are not economically used, for some of them are superfluous, as $q = kw$, $x = ks$, etc. This imperfection leads to the necessity of indicating the pronunciation of words by diacritical marks in order to denote the true value of any character.

CLASSIFICATION OF ORAL ELEMENTS

The elementary sounds are either vowel sounds or consonant sounds.

The vowel sounds, or vowels, are made by the vocal cords, and are but slightly modified by the organs of speech. The letters a, e, i, o, u, w, and y represent all the vowels in the language.

The consonant sounds, or consonants, are sounds made by the organs of speech other than the vocal cords.

VOWELS

Character	Name of Sound	Name of Diacritical Mark	Equivalent	Key Words
ā	Long a	Macron	e	āle, fāte, chāos
ă	Short a	Breve		ăm, făt, ăccept

Diphthongs

A diphthong is a combination of two vowel sounds in one utterance or syllable. It may be represented to the eye by two letters or by one. There are six diphthongs in the English language, represented in the words ice, out, oil, ale, old, use.

$$\bar{\imath} = ie,\ a = ae,\ o = oe.$$

Digraphs

A digraph is a combination of two letters to represent one sound, as ai in said, ph in phonic.

Trigraphs

A trigraph is a combination of three letters to represent one sound or diphthong, as ieu in adieu, eau in beau, sch in schist.

Consonants

Character	Name of Sound	Name of Diacritical Mark	Equivalent	Key Word
c̄	Hard	Bar	k	c̄at, c̄all
ç	Soft	Cedilla	s	çell, viçe
ḡ	Hard	Bar		ḡet, beḡin
ġ	Soft	Cedilla	j	ġem, enġine

Definitions and Classifications

The sounds in the language may be classified according to the special organs used in making or in modifying them.

A lingual is a consonant sound formed by the aid of the tongue, as th in thing.

A palatal is a sound produced by the aid of the palate, as k in king.

A labial is a sound produced by the aid of the lips, as p in pin.

A sub-vocal is a tone of the voice greatly modified or interrupted by the organs of speech, as b in boy.

An aspirate is a mere breathing, more or less modified by the organs of speech, as h in hat; wh in what.

Cognates are those pairs of consonant sounds, one sub-vocal and one aspirate, which are produced with the organs of speech in the same, or very nearly the same, position. In the following table cognates are on the same line.

Sub-vocals			Aspirates
Character	Key	Equivalent	Character	Key	Equivalent
b	ball		p	pull
d	do		t	time	ed, th
g	get		k	kill	c, ch, gh, q

SYLLABICATION

A Syllable is a word or a part of a word uttered with one impulse of the voice. The vowel is the unit of each syllable. It may or may not have consonants with it.

Syllabication is the separating of a word into its syllables. It is a great aid in the pronunciation of a long or unfamiliar word to separate it into its syllables. It is an aid also in spelling.

Rules for Syllabication.

There are two general rules which have been followed in dividing words into syllables.

First, the word is divided so as to give ease and smoothness of utterance; and, second, the origin or derivation of the word is respected in separating it into its syllables.

Under the first general rule a few specific rules may be given.

(a) c and g can not end a syllable; as, ra-ging, not rag-ing; enti-cing, not entic-ing.

(b) x and r, preceded by a or e, can not begin a syllable; as, vex-ation, par-ent, aver-age.

(c) When a single consonant comes between two vowels, it is usually joined to the following vowel; as, fa-vor, wa-ter.

Note. — There are many exceptions to the above rules, a full list of which may be obtained in the "Guide to Pronunciation," in Webster's International Dictionary.

Accent. — Accent is stress laid on one or more syllables in a word to distinguish them from the others.

Accent is of two kinds: Primary, where the full force of the voice is given; and Secondary, where less stress is given than is indicated by the primary accent, but more than is given to the other syllables of the word; as, su'per in tend'-ent. The syllable "tend" has the primary accent, and the syllable "su" has the secondary accent.

Rules for Accent.

RULE 1. Words of two syllables have but one accent. Amen and fortnight are exceptions.

NOTE. — Avoid pronouncing words of two syllables with equal stress.

RULE 2. Some words change their accent when the office of the word in the sentence changes. The accent usually falls on the last syllable when the word is used as a verb, and on the next to the last when it is used as a noun or as an adjective. Contest' is a verb; con'test, a noun.

Rules for c and g.

C and g are soft (marked ç and ġ; that is, c has the sound of s, and g has the sound of g in gin) before e, i, or y. They are hard (marked c and ḡ) in all other cases.

NOTE—This is one of the most important rules in pronunciation and in spelling. There are but few exceptions to this rule.

Rule for x.

X, unmarked, has the sound of ks in all cases except when beginning a word; as, Xerxes.

X̲, marked with detached bar, has the sound of gz; as in ex̲alt, ex̲ist.

Rules for Vowels in Unaccented Syllables.

RULE 1. When an unaccented syllable ends in a consonant its vowel, if single, has its regular short sound.

RULE 2. When a vowel constitutes or ends an unaccented syllable, it has the regular long sound shortened (marked as in so-ci'ė-ty, ė-vent'). The following are exceptions: a, which has its short Italian sound (as in A-mer'i-cȧ), and i and y, which usually have their short sounds (as in dĭ-rect', van'i-tў).

Rule 3. When an unaccented syllable ends in silent e, its vowel has the regular long sound; as, ded'i-cāte, tel'e-scōpe, etc.

Note. — The rule for i has so many exceptions that it is well to depend entirely on the dictionary for the pronunciation of this vowel in unaccented syllables.

Note. — "The most marked difference between unrefined and refined speech, between boorishness and elegance of pronunciation, consists in the management of the unaccented syllables. Here it is that vocalization and articulation are both liable to be defective, smothered and bungling instead of clear, clean-cut, and ready. Increased elegance and effectiveness of speech will amply repay even protracted and painful self-discipline in this direction." — Albert Salisbury.

Model for Analysis.

Cau-cā'sian. — This is a word of three syllables, accented on the second syllable.

C, in the first syllable, has its hard sound, and is marked with a bar through it.

Rule. C has its soft sound before e, i, or y, and its hard sound in all other cases.

Au is a diphthong and has the sound of long broad a.

C, in the second syllable, has its hard sound according to the rule just quoted. A has its regular long sound.

In the last syllable, the combination si has the sound of sh. The a has its regular short sound slightly obscured.

Rule 1. When an unaccented syllable ends in a consonant, its vowel, if single, has its regular short sound slightly obscured — indicated by writing the letter in Italic.

Look up the following words in the dictionary, mark each word carefully, and analyze fully, according to the model given above:—

1	civilization	1	bronchitis
2	banana	2	calliope
3	obligatory	3	chastisement

An Exercise in Pronunciation

Several decades ago a robust desperado designated his dishonest intention of directing his efforts against the domicile of a patriotic dominie. During his leisure hours he divulged his ominous plans to his favorite coadjutor.

First, they were to attack the culinary department, for from the kitchen often floated the aroma of chicken broth and sausage.

The robber's confidant, upon obtaining the dessert, poured over it some tomato sauce and took it to the granary where a Caucasian suffering from bronchitis was engrossed in forgetting his misery.

Mark the words in this exercise according to your idea of the pronunciation; then make correction by looking up each word in the Dictionary.

An Exercise in Pronunciation

Once upon a time a company composed of a senile, splenetic colonel, a disputative financier, and a sacrilegious Malay, purchased a calliope and resolved to go to the frontier to make a raid on the commissariat. They procured some dynamite and carbines precedent to starting; according to precedent, they planned to take the fort without asking permission, and after doing so, were much chagrined to find there nothing but iodine and prussic acid. As they departed they heard some Indians playing on flageolets and jew's-harps, and as they feared the bowie knives that might be near, they left their property in an isolated spot, and concealed themselves in a dilapidated hovel, hoping that they would not be harassed. The next morning they found the débris of their calliope.
